For Immediate Release:
Georgians Serving Georgians

September 15, 2009 • Atlanta, GA:

Graham-Field, whose corporate headquarters is in Atlanta, Georgia, is proud to show its support for PEDS (www.peds.org/), a nonprofit, member-based advocacy organization dedicated to making metro Atlanta safe and accessible for all pedestrians. PEDS works to improve engineering of the pedestrian environment, increase enforcement of pedestrian safety, and educate drivers about their responsibilities to pedestrians.

PEDS, in partnership with the Georgia Governor's Office of Highway Safety, will be hosting two one-day workshops, Designing Pedestrian Facilities for Accessibility, on September 17 and 18. During the workshops, able-bodied transportation engineers, urban planners, and construction contractors will use new Everest & Jennings® Traveler® SE wheelchairs donated by Graham-Field to experience firsthand the difficulties caused by dysfunctional ramps, inaccessible crosswalk buttons, and sidewalks with excessive cross slope.

Traveler® SE

Graham-Field supports organizations such as PEDS in their efforts to retrain transportation engineers, planning professionals, and urban designers in the latest ADA policies and practices, bringing more awareness of the difficulties that wheelchair users encounter. Graham-Field extends that same commitment through its offering of quality Everest & Jennings® wheelchairs.
